"I think the cohort model that the university has created has been phenomenal. As a graduate student working full time, you don’t always get to make connections. With this model, I have those added supports from my peers, and we rely on each other.

I have had many professors whom I deeply admire and have reached out to for various things after their course has ended because I value their expertise.”

“One of the biggest reasons I chose to continue my education at Neumann was because of the incredible flexibility it offered me. Not only did the online program fit perfectly with my schedule, it fit my family’s schedule as well.

Neumann’s size was a big factor. I didn’t want to sit in an auditorium and listen to a lecture. Neumann offered small classes with just 10 to 20 students and the hands-on experience I needed to succeed.”
